Task 1. Read the text and decide if each sentence 1-10 is TRUE or FALSE

Do what you love, love what you do

So you love … cooking?

If you are happier in the kitchen than in front of a computer screen, you might be interested in a course organised by the London School of Hospitality and Tourism. Many students on the Culinary Arts and Professional Cookery course go on to work in top restaurants after they graduate. The school has its own award-winning training restaurant called 'Pillars'. 'Pillars' is a real working restaurant, so you'll experience what it's like to work in the restaurant industry and customers will come and pay to eat your homework! On the course, you'll study French and Italian cooking, and if you decide on this course, you'll need to buy chef's whites, the traditional all-white uniform of professional chefs.

So you love … clothes?

The UK's capital city is the place to study if you want to be the next Armani or Versace. London College of Fashion offers a wide range of degree courses for the fashion industry. If you love shoes then you could try the degree in Footwear Design and Development. Perhaps you are more interested in designing clothing for sports – check out the course in Fashion Sportwear. There are design courses for menswear, womenswear and even for underwear! The course is popular with international students, so it's not unusual to hear lots of foreign languages at the college. Every year the college organises fashion shows and some of the biggest clothing companies and buyers with years of experience are there to look at students' designs.

So you love … football?

Do you love football? Do you dream of managing Manchester United or Real Madrid? Southampton Solent University could help to make your dreams come true. Football is part of the history of Southampton and if you get a place to do the Football Studies degree, you'll go on field trips to the most well-known stadiums and football clubs in the region. Famous managers and players from the world of football regularly give guest lecturers at the university. Students have the opportunity to hear about their years of experience in the football industry. Many students find jobs with big international football clubs such as Chelsea FC or FC Spartak Moscow after they finish the course. For this reason, graduates who speak another language have a real advantage in the world of modern football.

1 The Culinary Arts course is offered by the London School of Hospitality and Tourism.

2 The training restaurant at the London School of Hospitality and Tourism is called 'Pillars'.

3 The author suggests that only students who love cooking should apply for the Culinary Arts course.

4To be a student at the London School of Hospitality and Tourism's Culinary Arts course, you need to buy a chef's uniform.

5 Students in the Fashion program often hear only English at the London College of Fashion.

6 The London College of Fashion organizes fashion shows every year for its students.

7 The London College of Fashion has a program where students design clothing specifically for sports, like sports uniforms.

8 Graduates of the Football Studies degree have opportunities to work with major football clubs.

9 Students in the Football Studies program do not have guest lecturers from the football industry.

10 Students studying Football Studies at Southampton Solent University can visit famous football stadiums and meet professional football managers and players.

Task 2. Read the text. Complete gaps 11–15 with sentences A–E.

How LED lights can save sea turtles' lives

Sea turtles are amazing animals that have lived in our oceans for millions of years. However, today, they face many dangers. One of these comes from non-natural light. When baby sea turtles, also called hatchlings, come out of their eggs, they need to find the ocean quickly. They usually do this by following the natural light of the Moon and stars reflecting off the water. But in many places, artificial lights – from streets, buildings, and homes – are much brighter than the Moon. These lights can confuse baby sea turtles and make it hard for them to find their way to the ocean. This causes them to lose their way and head toward the land instead of the sea. (11) _____ .

Although artificial light is usually a problem for sea turtles, we don't have to live in the dark to protect them. Research shows that using special artificial lights, placed low to the ground and slightly covered so they can't be seen from the beach, reduces the chances of sea turtles getting confused. These turtle-friendly lights are also better for people as they can improve visibility while driving by reducing the shine on the car windows. If you live near the coast or are visiting a beach where sea turtles live, you can help. Use lights that are not bright and low to the ground. (12) _____ .

(13) _____ . Every year, hundreds of thousands of these sea animals are caught by large fishing boats in their fishing nets by accident – this means six to eight turtles daily for each boat in Mexico alone. Surprisingly, in this case, artificial lights can be helpful for sea turtles.

Studies show that turtles use their sight to find food, but when swimming underwater at night, it's hard to see the fishing net. (14) _____ . By adding lights to fishing nets, scientists have found a way to prevent turtles and other animals from getting caught in the nets, reducing the number of unwanted catches by 60% to 95% without lowering the amount of fish caught.

Using LED lights on fishing nets doesn't just help sea turtles. When sea animals get stuck in the net by mistake, they might damage it. It costs time and money to remove sea turtles from their nets and to fix or replace the broken nets. In addition, LED lights are energy-efficient and last a long time. (15) _____ .

a. Sea turtles have another enemy.
b. So, different organisations have developed fishing nets with LED lights.
c. This new design of fishing nets reduces costs, making it a less expensive option.
d. When this happens, the baby turtles can get lost, dehydrated, or even be eaten by other animals.
e. Close curtains at night to reduce the amount of light coming from inside buildings.

Read the article again. For questions 16–20, choose the correct answer, A, B, or C.

16 Why do baby sea turtles get confused by artificial lights?

a. Artificial lights make the ocean darker.
b. Artificial lights are brighter than the Moon and stars.
c. Artificial lights help them find food.

17 How do LED lights on fishing nets benefit sea turtles?

a. They increase the number of turtles caught by fishermen.
b. They make the nets harder for turtles to see.
c. They help turtles avoid getting caught in the nets.

18 What is one way people can help protect sea turtles from artificial lights?
a. Install lights that mimic the Moon and stars.
b. Turn on all lights at night to guide turtles.
c. Use lights that are low to the ground and slightly covered.

19 What does the development of LED fishing nets reveal about the relationship between technology and conservation?
a. Technology can be designed to address environmental challenges effectively.
b. Technological innovations always harm natural ecosystems.
c. Fishing nets with LED lights are only useful for catching more fish.

20 What is the importance of adapting human activities to protect sea turtles?
a. Protecting wildlife requires humans to completely stop using artificial light.
b. Adapting human activities can lead to mutual benefits for humans and wildlife.
c. Sea turtles are unaffected by human activities if they are in the ocean.
